

NOV 13 1955

Ag. 3-1
x. Vol. 2 Russia
& Egypt

CPYRIGHT

Front Edit Other
Page Page Page 10-A

Date: NOV 13 1955

PEOPLE in the NEWS

'GLAD TO MEET YOU'—Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden welcomes the Duke of Windsor, (right) with a bow at 10, Downing St., London, official residence of the premier. The duke is in London for a week's visit. (P).

TIM HOVEY, 10-year-old child actor who starred in the movie "The Private War of Major Benson," broke his wrist in a fall from his grandparents' garage in Hollywood. A playmate with a garden hose squirted water on young Tim, causing him to fall. The injury will keep him out of a new picture next week.

Tim

THE REV. ALVIN KERSHAW, Oxford, Ohio, Episcopal minister whose knowledge of jazz won him $32,000 on a TV program, hit another high note: He's been named the University of Louisville's "alumnus of the year" and will be honored at homecoming next week.

CPYRIGHT

Hope

BOB HOPE, movie and TV comedian, says he'll apply to the Soviet Embassy for permission to visit Russia when he is in Europe this winter to film parts of his television show. He didn't disclose why he wants to visit the Soviet Union.

DEAN MARTIN AND JERRY LEWIS claim a new record. They've been threatened with legal action on a satire they haven't even done yet. Firms in the coffee, vacuum cleaner and garbage disposal industry have protested a skit satirizing television's "late, late, late movie"—and their commercials.

ALLEN W. DULLES, the nation's intelligence chief, says there is evidence that the Communists may be offering arms to "countries in this hemisphere." He said the sale of arms by Reds to Egypt is calculated to cause trouble and play into the hands of the Soviets.

Dulles